Attorney James E. Frear is confined to his residence with a severe cold.

Henry Harding esq., contemplates going to Scranton to practice law about the first of January.

Wild, unfounded tales of the numerous cases of smallpox which are popularly supposed to exist here, are current in the nearby villages. One day John Tilman, of the firm of Ryan & Tilman, a recent visitor, happened to drop into a town on the river, and heard some men discussing the subject on the corner. John promptly declared that the person under discussion had a severe attack of the disease, but stated that he had called to see him that morning, and that he wasn't "broken out" very much. As may be imagined, this statement created a panic, and John had great difficulty in convincing the inhabitants that he was merely joking. Such men as Register Shaw and Justice Ketchedge are among the number under guard, although there is not the barest possibility of their developing the disease. The board of health has assumed dictatorial powers, and are determined to stamp it out, and every one supports him.

Harry Prevost, who has a position in the Hotel Sterling at Wilkes-Barre, is visiting his parents at this place.

PITTSTON.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Pittston, Dec. 11.—Local No. 181, United Mine Workers, will hold a special meeting next Sunday afternoon in Elsham's hall, Brownstown, when matters of much importance pertaining to the local will be discussed. Local No. 1831 was the third local organized in this vicinity and has on its roll over 750 members. The membership is not confined to any one colliery and includes mine employees from Old Forge to No. 14 shaft. The opinion prevails among the officers of the local that it should be disbanded and the members allowed to become affiliated with locals at the various collieries where they are employed.

Father Quinnan has moved into the new parochial residence at St. Mark's church at Sturmineville.

A choir of forty mixed voices, under the leadership of Harry Powell, has been organized in West Pittston to compete in the eisteddfod at Taylor Christmas, providing the competition takes place in the afternoon of that day.

Charles Morrow, a well-known resident of this city for many years, and Mrs. Elizabeth Goodell, for several years proprietor of the Coffee House here, were united in marriage last evening in the Episcopal church, by the rector, Rev. J. T. Johnston. They will reside on Mill street.

AVOC.

R. N. Courtland, of Scranton, a member of the United Mine Workers of America, will address Local 186 in Herbst's hall this evening. All meetings should be present.

DURYEA.

James Rollis has resigned his position as foreman of the Seneca colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, at Pittston, to accept a position with the Buckwin Coal company, of Minersville, Schuylkill county. Mr. Rollis is a promising young man of this place, being interested in most of the business enterprises in this town. He is also one of the principal stockholders and directors of the new silk mill in Old Forge. His absence is regretted by our townsmen. He will not remove his family from this place. He left for his new position on Tuesday. Those who accompanied him were Benjamin it again in safety. The climax thrilled and delighted the audiences, and there are other situations in the play that are equally thrilling and delightful. "The Ragged Hero," in a word, is an immense success. Matines on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Al. Reeves' Company.

Manager Herrington, of the star, has secured as the attraction for the feature of the week, Al. Reeves' Famous Big Company of Burlesques, one of the best organizations of this kind to be found in this country. These are seven clever vaudeville acts and two funny burlesques on the programme; the former are furnished by Metcalfe, Sabine, and Vera, and Lee, Louise, Aubrey, Rossey and Roselle, Cliff Gordon, Dunn, Denton and company, and host, but not least, Al. Reeves, the world's champion banjoist.

The burlesques entitled, "The Reception of Count O'Pudge," and "A Night at Narragansett Pier," are very laughable and serve as vehicles to introduce a number of novelties and beautiful musical numbers. Mr. Reeves has the reputation of carrying the handsomest lot of chorus women on the road, and this season has added several beautiful women to his company; they must be seen to be appreciated. There will be the usual daily matinee.

STAGE NOTES.

A play is to be made by George Ade for the use of Ward and Voices.

Annie Russell is credited with a hit in Clyde Fletcher's play, "The Girl and the Judge."
